Walk-Over SHOES

A Thing of Beauty is in Style Forever

These may be the only shoes of this height you can buy for some time.

The two models shown are the ones delighting particular women.

Take a glance at their refined and graceful proportions. They are built for a high and stately arch such as your mother used to boast was a truly Spanish arch.

Can you resist them? We like to sell them because of their beautiful and spirited lines. We shall have more of them when our men have won the war and leather becomes more plentiful.

The Walk-Over trade-mark is known the world over.

THE BIG SORT OF THE NEWS SCIMITAR

Frank Cobb, editor of the New York World, who secured the absence from that newspaper and accompanied Col. House to Versailles recently, will handle the publicity of the peace conference for the president, and there will be no censorship. Possibly consideration for Mr. Cobb's feelings caused the omission of Mr. Cobb's name, but loyalty to personal friends has been at the bottom of most of the troubles of the administration. Many of the things which Mr. Cobb has done in foreign propaganda and assisting the newspaper men at Washington deserve praise instead of condemnation, and it is known that many of his recommendations which would have helped toward better publicity were vetoed by the president himself.

Indeed, Mr. Wilson's ideas of what the function of newspapers is, differs so radically from that of most of the editors and correspondents here and the American people want to see printed about their government, that the administration has itself to blame for the numerous impressions of an erroneous character which go out of Washington because the president refused to consider the activity of the press as representing the desire of the people for news but simply the idle curiosity of individual reporters.

For instance, it may be surprising to the public to learn that the president has not received the Washington correspondents since May, 1918, and that in the last 12 months he has not given an audience to a single correspondent in Washington. All of the men who have been interpreting the Wilson administration have, of course, had the benefit of occasional counsel with members of the cabinet, but even they were so frequently uninformed as to what the president had in mind, that the great majority of the writers who give the people a daily resume of what the government is doing went unguided.

Many of the men who write from Washington have been and will be sympathetic with the Wilson administration because they believe the principles enunciated by the president on behalf of America are the very essence of human freedom and democracy, and the truth is that in the disposal of many of the things which Mr. Wilson has advocated in foreign affairs, they have considered his weaknesses in domestic policy as secondary. The time has come, however, when in handling so far-reaching a subject as the settlement of a great war, a feeling of genuine regret is developing among friends of the president and all sides that he is not taking the people sufficiently into his confidence even on foreign policy.

Unfortunately, extreme criticism as for example, an editorial by Col. Roosevelt yesterday, which the president could not help but see as it was printed on the front page of the Washington Post, serves only to solidify the words of Mr. Wilson and the president mistakes this enforced solidarity for enthusiastic support. The absurdity of some of the criticisms of Mr. Wilson's administration have done more to keep loyal friends of the president on his side than any other single factor.

Mr. Roosevelt declared that the president had been officially repudiated at the last election and should therefore not be considered by the allies as the representative of the American people, but only one branch of the American government, Mr. Wilson's strength at the peace conference will be the support America will give him as he represents our shores. Some of the men in the allied countries who do not want a democratic and unselfish peace will be quick to take advantage of the division in American opinion.

The suggestion made by former President Taft, printed in a parallel column alongside of Col. Roosevelt's views, carries far more weight in administration quarters. Mr. Taft declares the president owes it to the members of the senate foreign relations committee, Democrats as well as Republicans, to tell them what he has in mind for the peace conference. Mr. Wilson would save himself much embarrassment and leave himself open to good feeling if he availed himself of the suggestion, for the truth is much of the extreme tactics of the president's opponents in congress is due to irritation over Mr. Wilson's failure to consult them on strictly American and not partisan matters.

Many people in Washington are discussing whether the president would consult the senate leaders of both parties before going to the peace conference. Some of his staunchest friends predict that he would not do so because of the outspoken utterances of Senator Lodge in the last campaign against the 14 points which have been with one or two reservations accepted by the allies. Others say Mr. Wilson might furnish a surprise and let bygones be bygones in the interest of American unity at the peace table. The president has been successful with members of opposition parties before he secured money of his progressive legislation as governor of New Jersey when he dealt skillfully with a Republican legislature.

Mr. Wilson is a persuasive speaker. Most of his opposition is due to the fact that he will not explain what he wants or take counsel even with the people who are in sympathy with him. With the fate of American business and foreign trade tied up in the outcome of the peace conference, a definite understanding between the president and senate leaders before he goes to Europe might be followed by public statements by those leaders which would effectively quell the criticism in Europe that the president does not speak for a united people.

GERMAN U-BOATS GIVEN UP FORM MILE-LONG LINE

The submarines were towed to either side in batches of three and four. Officers, when asked the whereabouts of their flags, said their flag was a red one.

The correspondent visited a submarine, homeward bound, and saw a blood-stained cut-off blind sail which a British sailor had found under the captain's bunk.

HAIG REPORTS ON EXACT LINE REACHED BY ARMY

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The advance of the British army on the western front is reported as follows by Marshal Haig that night:

"Our forward march has been continued without incident. Last night our troops had reached the general line of Hebe, Werbomout and Ayswille, south of Liege."

MARSHAL FOCH PASSES THROUGH STRASSBURG

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Marshal Foch, accompanied by Gen. De Castelnau, arrived at Strassburg yesterday and reviewed the army of occupation, the war office announced. He then passed through the town at the head of the troops. The marshal was accorded a great ovation as commander-in-chief of the allied armies.

MAURETANIA BRINGING NEARLY 4,000 MEN HOME

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 28. (By the Associated Press.)—On board the steamer Mauretania, homeward bound, are 24 aero squadrons, two aero service units, casual officers and men, sick and wounded, totaling 165 officers and 3,454 men.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Numerous steamers will leave Liverpool during the coming week with American troops aboard. The Aquatonic will sail today with 1,500 officers and men of the American forces. The Canopus will sail Nov. 29 with 1,600 aboard; the Adriatic Nov. 30 with 2,175; the Cedric, Dec. 1, with 3,000.

The Empress of Britain will sail Dec. 1 with 2,850, including 400 sick; the Leithian Dec. 2 with 1,900 sick; and the Saxonia Dec. 3 with 1,900 sick.

FRANCE PLANNING AFTER-WAR WORK ON GIANT SCALE

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Julius Cels, recently appointed under-secretary of public works and transport, says in an interview with L'Information that special attention is being given to reaching an understanding with the American government relative to the immense amount of work done in France by the American army and navy. The special features under consideration are the construction projects along the front, between the front and the sea coast, and at French ports.

Mr. Cels says extensive plans are being formed for an economic offensive by which French activities after the war will be commensurate with those carried out by the American army. The projects before various committees include reorganization and extension of railway, canal, and canal routes and electric power plants and the elaboration of works at docks and ports.

"Studies are being made of a plan for a great international railway route from Bordeaux to Havre," he says. "There is also a committee studying the project of constructing a tunnel under the English channel and another through the Vosges mountains west of Alsace."

JUAREZ CUT OFF AS REBELS MENACE CITY

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 28.—Juarez is apparently cut off from the interior of Mexico, and rebel bands under command of Francisco Villa and other leaders are reported at various points within striking distance of the town. Military officials in Juarez today still were without information concerning the result of the rebel attack on Villa Ahumada, 50 miles to the south, which occurred early Sunday morning. A heavily guarded train sent out yesterday reached Cuernavaca, 60 miles to the south, where a number of bridges were found burned and further progress was found impossible.

Juarez military officers persist in the assertion that there is no danger of an attack on the town, which is amply garrisoned. They point to the burned bridges as proof that Juarez is not the object of the attack, which they say, if made at all, is against Cuernavaca.

SELF PROTESTS TO ALLIES REGARDING ALSACE DEMANDS

third stage has already been reached and encroached upon the Rhine country to the west of Prum, between Metz and Sarreguemines and comprises Sargis and Sarrebruck. It seems possible that this encroachment may have been made with a view to attempting the evacuation of these territories to Alsace-Lorraine. The protest of the members of the German commission has not been considered. The German government makes most solemn protest against all attempts intended to deprive Germany of these territories.

TRADE BOARD MAY BE GIVEN VOICE AT MEET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The federal trade commission probably will be represented among the advisers of the peace conference, it was learned today. Such a representative in desirable, officials say, in order that the conference may have the benefit of the information on foreign trade which the commission has gathered in the course of its work. Such action will be especially useful, it was said, in discussions relating to foreign trade and freedom of the seas.

DANIELS GIVES VIEWS ON WHAT SHOULD BE DONE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Deliberations of the coming peace conference should be guided by principle and justice, touched with mercy to the weak, and not by passion or emotion, said Secretary Daniels speaking at Buffalo's community thanksgiving service.

"The allies and the United States having won the war, Mr. Daniels said the theory that every man in the world, high or low, rich or poor, shall have a chance to make the most of himself now the fixed philosophy of all nations."

"But no policy of hatred," he said, "the spirit of vengeance should guide this world renewal. The protection of women and children knows no friends and no enemies. The renth of modern civilization should not go forward under any spell of mere revenge or malice, in the name of principle and justice, touched with mercy to the weak should guide this congress, not passion or emotion."

SPANISH SOLONS O. K. WORLD LEAGUE IDEAS

MADRID, Nov. 28. (By the Associated Press.)—Both chambers of the Spanish parliament have approved in principle the proposition for formation of a league of nations and will name a Spanish representative in that organization. The government will soon introduce a bill repealing Spanish subjects who have fought under allied flags.

LONDON PAPER FIRM FOR MAKING HUNS PAY

LONDON, Nov. 28.—"German states, whatever their form, must pay the bill Germany as a whole, must be held responsible for the consequences of the war," says the Westminster Gazette, in discussing the situation that has developed in Germany. The newspaper admits that the allies may find that the legal entity of Germany has undergone a vast change and that like Austria it may burst in fragments before negotiations are completed.

WINTER PARK, FLA.

R. P. FOLEY, PROPRIETOR

Winter Park, Fla., December 7, 1912.

Gentlemen: Not being able to procure any of your valuable medicine at any of the drug stores in this part of the country I am enclosing herewith $5.00 for which, if you will express to me, a half dozen large size bottles at once, prepaid, I will be greatly obliged.

We have been compelled several times before to send direct for Micro-Solvent and do not understand why it is not known and used in every town, city and state in the country.

Druggists here undertook to furnish us on agreement that we take six bottles on arrival, but in reply to his order to Jacksonville wholesale house that they could not furnish it, not even being able to tell where it was made, we resolved to order it ourselves.

We use Micro-Solvent and have saved many a doctor bill and hours upon hours of worry thereby, and by recommending it to strangers in many parts of the country have made many grateful and lasting friends by so doing.

If this medicine were advertised half as freely as some others a great worldly good would surely be the result. If you do not need or desire the profits do not forget that there are many poor sufferers that would live for years longer if they knew of and used Micro-Solvent. (GLORY WOULD BE YOURS IF YOU COULD.)

Dr. Barrie, of Manistowish, Mich., told us to use Micro-Solvent to prevent our fourth child from having scarlet fever, after treating three successfully, through a 30 days' run of the same disease (excepting after effects). The Micro did the work, as he said it would, and has been doing the same job and many others for our eight children for twelve years. What is it worth to us? Yours very truly,

E. P. Foley
